This is where Emily is taking her family on Christmas Night, there will be special menus but they are not prepared yet. If you call the restaurant and ask for Paulina or email them through their website they will get back to your promptly and explain the menus and reservations available.

Pod Baranem (open Christmas Eve 12-4pm): ul. Gertrudy 21

Website Here

Emily teaches English to a wonderful Polish family that lived in USA for 30 years, and this is their all-time favorite restaurant in Krakow, the decor is nothing special but they love it there!

Charlotte (Open Christmas Eve 9am-5pm): Plac Szczepanski 2

Website Here

We cover them on our blog here and it is our absolute favorite place for breakfast! But their lunch is also really good. And an early dinner could definitely be an option as well. It's a french bistro and they prepare all their own bread, pastries, etc.....

Alchemia and Alchemia Od Kuchni (Open Christmas Eve 9am-5pm and Christmas Day (Noon-til late):

Estery 5 (on Plac Nowy in Kazimierz)

Website is here but we also covered them on the blog here they will have their normal menu.

This is technically two establishments, but the same menu, located right next to each other. The Od Kuchni version is new and is meant only for dining, very modern, clean space- the original Alchemia which we prefer is old, dusty, candle-lit, and filled with antique furniture and smoke/fireplaces (maybe not a good fit for your guests). The food is great, even breakfast! And the original Alchemia is what brought life back to the Jewish District in Krakow, so it is a tried and true favorite of locals and tourists alike.

Bunkier Cafe (Has varied opening hours, but should be open at some point both days): Plac Szczepanski 3a (along the planty)

Their website is here and we covered them on the blog here

Again more of a cafe than a formal place to have a holiday meal, but would definitely recommend for lunch one of the days, or breakfast.

From what is listed right now, there is only one EatAway option available for the 24/25th but you can always check back to see if a chef will be adding one soon. EatAway is a new start-up that allows people to serve meals from their home, and guests to book meals at someone's home! Sort of like Airbnb but for restaurants.... Here is the listing of meals: http://www.eataway.com/meals/?q=krakow&lat=&lng=&place_id=

Possible stores that are open on next page....

This is a list that we found for grocery/convenience stores that will be open Christmas Day; however it may be outdated. Most Szabkas should be open.
